

Clark's Method (1990)

- Idea: use information obtained from other individuals in the population to determine the most probable haplotype pair.